The Tide Pool

On Saturday, Nora and her grandpa walked to the rocky beach. The tide was low, so small pools of water sat between the rocks. Nora knelt down and looked into one pool. She saw a purple sea star holding tight to a rock. A tiny crab ran under some green seaweed. Grandpa told Nora to look but not touch, because the animals live there. Before they left, Nora drew a picture of the sea star in her notebook. She wanted to remember it.
